THE FENIANS.

Movements of Colonel Roberts-Head Centre Stephens Preparing a Mautfento-Stirring Address from General Sweeney, Etc.

Last week the Fenian Senate adopted an adiress to the organization in this country, of which a synopsis has already appeared. The Senate has since adjourned, with the under-standing that they are to reassemble in a short time for the purpose of perfecting measures to place the organization on a purely military basis.

Chief Organizer James Stephens has been stopping at Bath, Long Island, for the last few days. During that time he has been preparing an address for the Fenian Brotherhood in this countrn. He is expected to return to this city on Saturday next, and on Monday he will leave

GENERAL SWEENEY'S ADDRESS.

St. Albans, Vt., July 4.—To the Members of the Feman Brotherhood in America.—Brothers:—In view of the present position of our organization, I deem it my duty to address you. When arrested, I expected I would be immediately released, or, by the interference of the prominent officials of the Brotherhood, steps would be taken to obtain bail. In both cases I have been disappointed, and a severe attack of sickness prostrated me so as to incapacitate me to address you before now. My communications have been stopped, even my ielegrams in cypher, which I am sure, gave no information to the capters. Brothers, in my next official document, which I hope soon to address from headquarters, you will see the necessity of organizing into military companies, and also that of choosing as your leaders the true and honest men who are among you for all the positions where military tact and experience are necessary, bearing in mind, from our recent experience, that circles, to be efficient, must have their companies armed and equipped, and determined to use them promptly when called on. Be not disheartened, my brothers; the late movements of our troops have proven to even our enemies the piacticability of my plans. Were it not for the interference of the United States Government officials no power which England could bring to bear could impede the triumpnant advance of our brave boys, the result of which would be a giorius success. England to day, through her mercenary press, can well return thanks and appland America for her inithal observance of the neutrality laws. Let the American officials, or those of them who have made themselves officious, send across the Atlantic their kind appreciation of this generous acknowledgment, but the great American people, I am sure, judging from the warm sympathy and support which we have received, will GENERAL SWEENEY'S ADDRESS. can people, I am sure, judging from the warm sym-pathy and support which we have received, will not either accept from England her congratulations nor concede to American officials the right to return nor concede to American officials the right to return England good for evil. 10-morrow, were I in a position to move again, to none would I entrust and on none would I depend more for the faithful and efficient protection of my plans than on the American, born citizens on the frontiers, and in connection with the above I now on behalf or myself and the Brotherhood return them all collectively and intended in my superior thanks for their mand. and individually my sincere thanks for their maniand individually my sincere thanks for their many and independent efforts in support of republicanism and the disenthralment of an enslaved people. Brothers, beware of the trickster, the politician, and the charlatan. Our organization is an organization of progress. It is not the M. C.'s who will effect any good for Iteland; no, it is the soldier, the hardy laborer, the mechanic, and the advance of public opunion opposed to slavery and in favor the hardy laborer, the mechanic, and the advance of public opinion opposed to slavery and in favor of universal liberty. In all our relations with men who may differ with you in opinion on the subject at issue, never lorget that you are pairiots and gentlemen. It is only in the absence of proof, reason, and logic, that the bigot and wou'd-be despot has to descend to personalities, criminations, and vituperations. No gentleman will use these cowardly were constructed by the subject of the second to personalities. weapons, which only make an impression on the ignorant, the weak, the useless, and the selfish. The bearing of the soldier of the I. R. A. should be lorty bearing of the soldier of the I. R. A. should be lotty and independent; his race is inferior to none; his mission is as grand, as legitimate and as holy as was ever blessed by the God of Battles. Gather around you, my brothers, the really true men; it matters not their position if they are honest; all are equal in our organization [Let our fair co-laborers, the Sisterhood, to whom we are so much indebted, redouble their energies. In connection with every company or circle there should be a sanitary commission, with medical stores, etc. Over this department the fair daughters of Erin should pre ide. In conclusion, I exhort you to guard, cherish, and protect our now really powerful organization. Never before due it assume the elevated position which it has at this custodian of an important and sacred secret, and as such protect it as he would his life. Public demon-strations and controversies, unless where unavoidstrations and controverses, unless where unavoidable, should not be encouraged; in fact if the members are actuated by a spirit of secresy, and of their ability to meet our common enemy, and determined so to do at the earliest opportunity, success is sure to follow, and the pall which now enshrouds our prostrate and weeping mother will be replaced by a halo of gjory. Fraternally yours, talker, and the other day the Princess Metter-nich, tired to death of his endless jabbering, and out of humor, was going to dine at the Tuile-fifteen minutes, while he arranged his combe lery of his profession. The Princess replied in a crusty tone, "In silence!" He did not take her reply as it was meant (much learning hath made him mad); he understood her to designate some new style of head-dress which she had invented during the morning. He paused for a moment, and then his face brightened as he said:-

"Madame, I'really cannot extemporize that head-dress. You shall have it to-morrow. The cifect will be striking. I see exactly what you desire—with discreet plaits and mysterious rolls."

The droll mixture of absurdity and vanity and self-conceit which this speech contained restored the Princess to excellent humor, and she made the imperial table quite merry by relating it.

Grand Pleasure Excursion.

The grandest pleasure excursion ever inaugurated in this country will take place in the coming month, it being no less than a season of the most beautiful lakes, rivers, and bays on this continent, a distance of two thousand five

The new, staunch, and commodious steamer fromsides, J. E. Turner, Commander, of 1127 tons burden, will leave Cleveland on Thursday, July 12tn, at 9 o'clock P. M., on an excursion to the cool and invigorating regions of Lake Superior. The steamer will go entirely around Superior. The steamer will go entirely around the Lake, thus giving tourists an opportunity of visiting the most picturesque portions of these wonderful regious — portions that are never visited on ordinary trips. The trip will occupy the time of two regular steamer trips, about twenty-eight days, stopping at all points of interest sufficiently long to allow the tourists ample time to explore the copper and iron mines; to fish, hunt, and gather agates, amethers and other precious stones and minerals.

thysis, and other precious stones and minerals. Small boats will always be at command to take the whole party ashore at one time.

One advantage this excursion will have over all others is the fact that the number of passengers will be limited, so as to insure to each person a good berth in a state-room. The staterooms are all large and airy, with most com-tortable spring beds. As there will be no more taken than can be seated at the table in com-tort, there will be no waiting or rushing and crowding at meal times. The larder will be most bountifully supplied with every delicacy, cows will be carried along to furnish fresh milk during the trip, and the meat used will be slaughtered on board, and nothing will be left undone on the part of the captain and his officers to have all the arrangements most complete and satisfactory to the tourists. The steamer is large and new, built with water-tight compartments, and with every new improve-ment that could add to her strength and the the entire state.room. A large number of berths and rooms have already been engaged, and this trip promises to be the most delightful, as it certainly is the grandest ever made to Lake

DEATH OF THE "OLDEST INHABITANT."-One of our exchanges announces that on Friday of week before last, Mr. Barnard Eisenhuth died at New Castle, Schuylkill county, aged over one hundred and cleven years. He was probably the oldest man in Pennsylvania. He was born in Lebanon, Pa., and was baptized on the 10th of May, 1755, in the old Lutheran Church at Lebanon. His age at this time is not known, but he was probably an infant. During the Revolutionary war, he was left at home to take care of the family, while his father, who was captain of riflemen under General Anthony Wayne, was in the army. It is supposed that Captain Eisenbuth was killed, as he never returned. Mr. Eisenhuth afterwards removed to Berks county, where he married Catharine Saylor. She was born in Philadelphia. They had ten children—five of whom are still living. The early history of the family is not known, as the house of Mr. Eisenhuth was destroyed by tire in 1806, and the family records, etc., were consumed. His wife died in 1848, aged 95 years. consumed. His wife died in 1848, aged 95 years. Mr. Eisenhuth leaves five children, forty-one grandchildren, sixty-three great-grandchildren, and seven great-great-grandchildren — 116 living descendants. Probably as many more have died. He was sick only five weeks, appa-rently suffering from nothing but weakness, and retained his consciousness to the last, dying as gently as though falling to sleep. In his younger days he was a powerful man. He was about six feet in height, raw-boned, and heavily built, with light brown hair, light complexion, and blue eyes. He was a farmer and lumberman, and at the age of 103 years worked in the
